

Map

Territories

The following table contains 300+ different territory hexes. Each territory has the following features:

- Hex: This is the code for reference. When looking at the map, each hex has a letter and number code which corresponds to a territory in this table.
- Name: Certain hexes contain a notable location and thus will have a name.
- Environment: This is which environment rules you should use when playing a scenario in this territory. See the Environment appendix entry.
- Primary: This is the primary terrain type of the territory. It will typically determine the predominant terrain of the scenario and what scenarios and rogue warbands you will encounter
- Secondary: This represents terrain that features in this territory but is not the dominant form.
- Tertiary: Terrain that features slightly in a territory would be tertiary terrain.
- Special: These are some special rules that apply to the territory that will impact how you play there. The main special rules are:
 - Extremely Doomed: Apply the effects of the Doomed special rule twice. Does not stack with Doomed. If a Dark Lords warband loses a scenario played in this territory, this rule is removed.
 - Doomed: Non-Dark Lords Characters in scenarios played in territories with this special rule have -1 Bravery. Does not stack with Extremely Doomed. If a Dark Lords warband loses a scenario played in this territory, this rule is removed.
 - Land of the Dead: When placing terrain for the scenario, include graves, crypts, and/or mausoleums. When rolling 2d6 to determine the scenario, on a double odds result (ie two 1s, 3s, or 5s) you instead embark on the Duel of the Dead campaign. If you win the last scenario, the Land of Dead rule is removed from the territory and you gain a random fabled artifact. Each time you play a scenario, it takes the place of one campaign action.
 - River: When placing terrain for the scenario, feature a river or stream
 - Ruined Realm: When placing terrain for the scenario, include ruins
 - Settlements: When this territory is owned by another player, roll on the Hostile Settlement Scenarios chart for encounters
 - Stomping Grounds: A monster or titan of some renown calls this territory home. Note the name, unit, and trait(s) of this Renowned Creature. Scenarios played in this territory feature an additional rogue warband of this character regardless of anything else (usually meaning there are two rogue warbands at least.). It is friendly to Bestiary rogue warbands. If this renowned creature is knocked out, they roll for an injury and ignore any result besides 1. If they roll a 1, the territory loses the Stomping Grounds special rule and the named creature is removed from the campaign. If the creature is not slain, players that defeat it may hire it during the Wandering Trader at a Pricy cost. They also gain XP and traits as would a player unit.
 - Gremlin Hotspot: A lot of Gremlins (too many) have been seen in the area. Be careful!
 - When rolling 2d6 to determine the scenario, on a double result of evens (ie: two 2s, 4s, or 6s) you instead embark on the Descent into the Netherregions campaign. If you win the last scenario, the Gremlin Hotspot rule is removed from the territory and you gain a random fabled artifact. Each time you play a scenario, it takes the place of one campaign action.
 - You may elect to traverse the Netherregions when starting in a Gremlin Hotspot territory. Roll a d6,
 - Gremlins and Nomads friendly to Gremlins count as rolling a 6.
 - On a 1-3, you embark on the Descent into the Netherregions campaign. If you win the last scenario, the Gremlin Hotspot rule is removed from the territory and you gain a random fabled artifact. Each time you play a scenario, it takes the place of one campaign action.
 - On a 4+, you instead roll 2d3 and play a scenario in a territory X hexes away, X is equal to the 2d3 result. If you win, you then move to and occupy the chosen territory.
- Factions: These are one or more ArcWorlde factions that might inhabit this territory. They might feature as rogue warbands or swords for hire
- Swords for Hire: These are famous names in Upper ArcWorlde that can be hired in this territory for some work
